DETAILED ACTION

Election

Claims 18-22 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in Paper No. 4.

Applicant's election without traverse of 1-17 in Paper No. 4 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 4-8 and 12-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Goto (JP 05-36886).

Goto (Fig 1, 2, 7) discloses a leadframe for a semiconductor device, the leadframe comprising: a generally square shaped paddle ring (4) having an inner an outer perimeter and a cavity (defined by ring) located within the inner perimeter for receiving an circuit die (1) that is placed within the cavity and includes a plurality of die pads (1b), a first row of terminals (6) connected to a connection bar (8) and generally surrounding the paddle ring outer perimeter and a second row of terminals (7) surrounding the first row of terminals; a paddle flag (3) located within the cavity that supports the die wherein the flag is inherently integral with the ring via adhesive (2); and each of the terminals of the first row is individually connected to the paddle ring; with each terminal of the second row terminals connected to one side of the connection bar; said die and die pads electrically connected to respective ones of the first and second rows of terminals.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 2, 3, 9 and 16-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Goto.

Goto discloses the elements stated in paragraph and another row of terminals (not labeled) connected to the other side of the connection bar, but doesn't appear to disclose that the outer and inner perimeters of the paddle ring include a plurality of projections.

In any case, it would have been an obvious matter of design choice bounded by well known manufacturing constraints and ascertainable by routine experimentation and optimization to choose these particular dimensions because applicant has not disclosed that the dimensions are for a particular unobvious purpose, produce an unexpected result, or are otherwise critical, and it appears prima facie that the process would possess utility using another dimension. Indeed, it has been held that mere dimensional limitations are prima facie obvious absent a disclosure that the limitations are for a particular unobvious purpose, produce an unexpected result, or are otherwise critical. See, for example, In re Rose, 220 F.2d 459, 105 USPQ 237 (CCPA 1955); In re Rinehart, 531 F.2d 1048, 189 USPQ 143 (CCPA 1976); Gardner v. TEC Systems, Inc., 725 F.2d 1338, 220 USPQ 777 (Fed. Cir. 1984), cert. denied, 469 U.S. 830, 225 USPQ 232 (1984); In re Dailey, 357 F.2d 669, 149 USPQ 47 (CCPA 1966).

With respect to claim 9, although the prior art does not appear to explicitly teach leads "for connecting to a second integrated die", this statement of intended use does not result in a structural difference between the claimed apparatus and the apparatus of the prior art. Further, because the apparatus of the prior art is inherently capable of being used for the intended use the statement of intended use does not patentably distinguish the claimed apparatus from the apparatus of prior art. Similarly, the manner in which an apparatus operates is not germane to the issue of patentability of the apparatus; Ex parte Wikdahl 10 USPQ 2d 1546, 1548 (BPAI 1989); Ex parte McCullough 7 USPQ 2d 1889, 1891 (BPAI 1988); In re Finsterwalder 168 USPQ 530 (CCPA 1971); In re Casey 152 USPQ 235, 238 (CCPA 1967). Also, "Expressions relating the apparatus to contents thereof during an intended operation are of no significance in determining patentability of the apparatus claim."; Ex parte Thibault, 164 USPQ 666, 667 (Bd. App. 1969). And, "Inclusion of material or article worked upon by a structure being claimed does not impart patentability to the claims."; In re Young, 25 USPQ 69 (CCPA 1935) (as restated in In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963)). And, claims directed to apparatus must be distinguished from the prior art in terms of structure rather than function. In re Danley, 120 USPQ 528, 531 (CCPA 1959). "Apparatus claims cover what a device is, not what a device does." Hewlett-Packard Co. v. Bausch & Lomb Inc., 15 USPQ2d 1525, 1528 (Fed. Cir. 1990).

Claims 10 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Goto as applied to claim 1 and further in combination with Kinsman (U.S 6, 005,286).

The prior art does not appear to disclose that the material of the frame is copper, however Kinsman teaches the frame made of copper.

However examiner takes official notice that it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to form the lead frame of copper in order to provide, as was conventional, an external electrical contact for the device as shown by Kinsman (Column 1, Lines 29-30).

With respect to claim 11, although the prior art does not appear to explicitly teach the process limitations of "an etching process," the product of prior art inherently possesses the structural characteristics imparted by the process limitation. See In re Fitzgerald, Sanders, and Bagheri, 205 USPQ 594 (CCPA 1980).
